

RANELL TOLAND'S BIO

Ranell Toland is the husband of the Founder of Greatness Now™ and currently serves in the capacity of Vice President. Although Greatness Now™ was an established entity of seven years at the time Ranell married the Founder, throwing his full support behind the mission and purpose of the company was easy from the very beginning.

A firm believer in striving to be the best person one can be; Ranell has always been a person of great character, firm work ethic, humility, and strength. In fact, to know him is to know that while he is a man of few words, his presence and integrity speaks volumes.

Ranell is no stranger to public relations and/or sales as his background includes professional cooking, restaurant management, and distribution. Having spent ten years as a restaurant manager, ten years in distribution, and five years in other entrepreneurial endeavors, Ranell understands the importance of commitment and excellence in service.

Working throughout his professional career with top of the line organizations such as KRT Enterprise, Ahold Corporation, and a major financial company duly prepared Ranell for stepping into the role of Vice President at Greatness Now™ where he is tasked with balancing the creative energy of the Founder without quelling it, managing climate control within the company, and overseeing all aspects of product development, purchasing, and sales.

Ranell holds certifications and licenses from the Baltimore International College as well as the Maryland Insurance Administration; yet his most valued accomplishments are being husband, best friend, and partner in life to Mischa Toland; father and friend to sons Kyle Duffie, Sr. and James Green, Jr.; and best buddy to grandsons Kyle Duffie, Jr. and Ari Green.
